The Collier Library is administered as an important part of the academic program at Florence State. It is a vital instrument of instruction, not only in general education, but also in the cultural development of students and faculty.

The comfortable, attractive, air-conditioned library building provides easy access to more than seventy thousand volumes, some four hundred current periodicals, more than twenty newspapers, and in excess of eight thousand bound volumes of previous issues of periodicals.

The library atmosphere is conducive to study and research.
