

Collier Library Dreams come true

Several dreams are becoming realities in Collier Library. On top of the list is the release of money from a state bond issue which provides capital funds to enlarge Collier. "The additions will increase the library capacity by 63 percent," said Head Librarian Dr. Fred Heath.

A second dream come true is the addition of the SOLINET System, which allows for common cataloging of books with approximately 1000 aca-demical libraries as well as the Library of Congress.

Some other renovating includes a changing from the Dewey Decimal System to the Library of Congress System. "The new system is more suitable for computer cataloging," said Heath. Also, the new system is more widely used today in academic institutions.

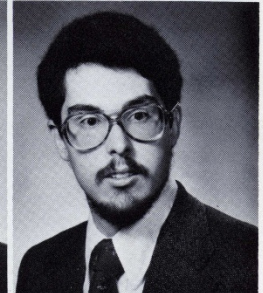

Also, the library installed new security equipment in the spring in a hope to cut down on theft. "Although our problem is not as extensive as some other colleges, we lose about $10,000 per year in books," commented Heath.
