Appointed to Board of Directors, Every Child Counts, an island school for children with disabilities in Abaco, Bahamas Raskob Foundation, in support of Every Child Counts, transportation grant, funded in October, 2014.

Zayac, Ryan - Associate Professor of Psychology

Awarded, Outstanding Faculty Member Award, College of Arts & Sciences, 2015.

$1,191, College of Arts & Sciences Research Grant (March, 2015) awarded to present research on the effects of interteaching on elementary school student academic performance at the Southeastern Psychological Association Conference in Hilton Head, SC.

Profiles in Excellence gives recognition to the scholarly accomplishments of our faculty. Broadly defined those accomplishments include artistic endeavors, creative initiatives, original research, scholarly books, articles and presentations, funded grants, and/or academic services. These efforts augment scholarship at the University but also enhance the integral relationship between teaching and research. They are often an extension of research collaboration with our students and with colleagues at other institutions.

The publication of Profiles in Excellence affords an opportunity for the University to acknowledge the dedication and professionalism of the University of North Alabama faculty. The accomplishments reported herein are but a small part of the numerous examples of hard work contributed by the faculty on behalf of the numerous constituencies served by the University.

The mission of the University of North Alabama is broad based but gives special attention to the creation of an environment of discovery and creative accomplishment. Profiles in Excellence embraces that mission. To all who contribute on its behalf, thank you.

DR. LAWRENCE J. NELSON OUTSTANDING TEACHING AWARD

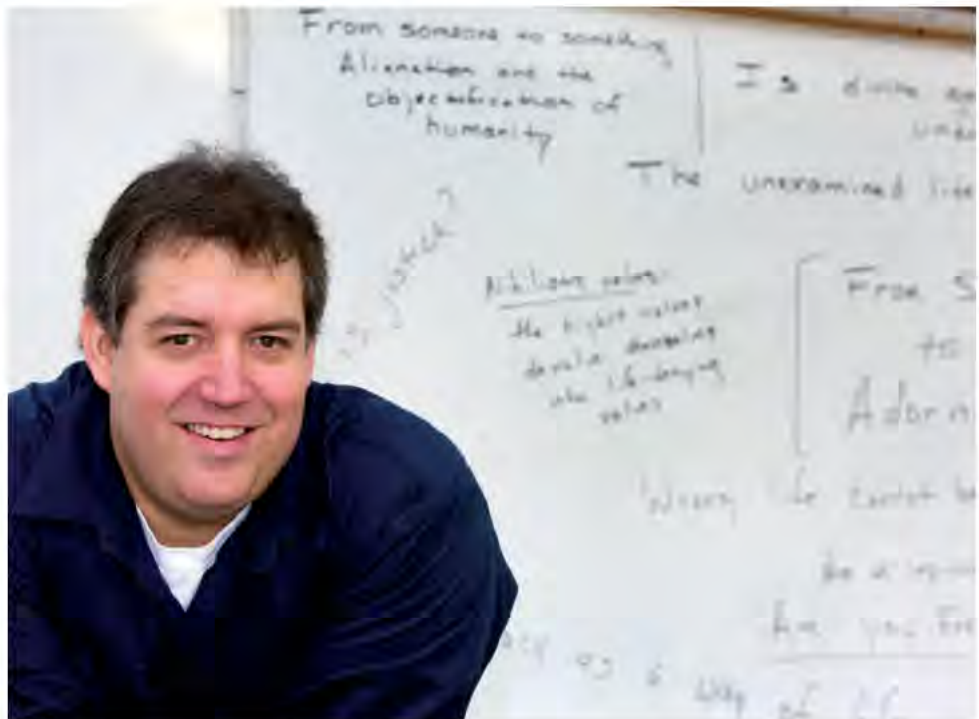

MATTHEW J. FITZSIMMONS, Associate Professor of Philosophy,

B.A., 1998, Kentucky Wesleyan College; M.A., 2003, Ph.D., 2004, Vanderbilt University.

Early on in Dr. Fitzsimmons' graduate education, he made a disquieting observation: not all approaches to philosophy are equal. And it appeared to him that his study up to that point had to a great degree emphasized the lesser of these. But a conversation with his graduate advisor, John Lachs, changed everything. Lachs said, "You want to know if philosophy can bake bread. The short answer to that is, 'yes, it can.'" The discussion had a profound impact. Dr. Fitzsimmons recalls: "It was revelatory. It harkened back to the original call of philosophy to see past mere appearances, to understand how and why given realities are presented and interpreted in the ways that they are, and to illuminate the means by which these perceptions shape our moral agency. But it also prompted a focus on the struggles and conditions of the present with an emphasis on problem solving and an eye toward bettering future experience; in other words, promoting human flourishing. This led me to a serious study of American Pragmatism, particularly the thought of John Dewey, and helped to develop my interest in classical Greek thought as well as contemporary ethics and social/political philosophy." What emerged from these encounters was a new emphasis on philosophical study as eminently relevant to the problems of human experience. "It was very much in line with how Plato portrays reason in Book VII of The Republic ("The Allegory of the Cave"): reason helps to liberate us from the chains of ignorance – it is like stepping out from a cold dark cave into the warmth and illumination of sunlight."

This focus on philosophy's relevance to everyday life can be found in how Dr. Fitzsimmons approaches teaching. He emphasizes the study of philosophy as much more than merely gaining familiarity with classic thinkers or traditional arguments. "If philosophy was nothing more than the mere memorization of past ideas, it would be as dead as the pages on which it is written." Rather, he presents philosophy as life-engaging. His courses also highlight the importance of shared inquiry for mutual lived experiences. Specifically, he utilizes a Socratic approach to philosophical exploration by encouraging students to come to conclusions through their own reasoning and to engage in dialogue. "I think it's more important to talk with students rather than to them; we cover a variety of controversial topics, and, in order to have a meaningful conversation, the classroom must allow for students to explore these ideas freely and openly." Central to this teaching method is the cultivation of student interest. If students are genuinely interested in the topics covered, then they are likely to be motivated to explore these ideas in a deep and substantial fashion. Consequently, Dr. Fitzsimmons attempts to relate various philosophical issues to contemporary problems/debates in addition to everyday scenarios students are likely to encounter. "It is my hope that the study of philosophy will be seen by students as borne out of lived experience and will inspire them to see the practice of philosophy as a way of life."

Dr. Fitzsimmons was born and raised in East Central Illinois. Prior to coming to UNA in 2007, he taught philosophy at Grand Valley State University, Rhodes College, and Vanderbilt University. His wife, Angie, and their three children, Michael, Emma, and Owen live in Killen, Alabama.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS AWARD FOR OUTSTANDING ADVISING

CAROLYN M. BARSKE, Assistant Professor of History, B.A. 2002, Sewanee;

The University of the South; M.A. 2004, Northeastern University; PhD., 2011, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

At an early age Carrie Barske fell in love with the study of history. The daughter of two amateur historians, and the granddaughter of another lover of history and genealogy, it seemed almost inevitable that Dr. Barske would find the study of history fascinating. Her parents took her and her sister to historic sites and museums beginning at an early age, teaching them that the study of history was much more than a list of dates and names. Instead, history was made up of a rich collection of millions of people's stories. Dr. Barske's fate seemed sealed when in 7th grade she took her history textbook home for the summer so she could finish the book. "My mother would come upstairs to say goodnight to me and find me reading the textbook. I wanted to know what happened next. We never finished the books in school and I knew there were many more stories to learn."

This thirst for knowledge followed Dr. Barske through college and then onto graduate school. It was at Northeastern University that she discovered public history. "As far back as I could remember, my parents had taken me to places like Sturbridge Village and Colonial Williamsburg. And I always loved that you could see how history worked, how people actually lived." When she realized that there was actually a field of study that taught students how to work with communities on preserving and interpreting their history, she was hooked. "I have always wanted to blend my love of history with helping people and public history provided a perfect way to do that." She also learned, however, that a love of history was not enough to become a successful public historian. Because of their unique relationship to communities, public historians are professionals, activists, administrators, mediators, and often tackle tough and painful subjects. Teaching students to navigate the complicated world of public history has been Dr. Barske's main goal since coming to UNA. She has pushed her students to develop their skills as historians, while also helping shape them as professionals. She takes them to conference after conference (so much so that her students are playfully known as "Barske's players" on the Alabama conference circuit), holds workshops on developing CVs and professional portfolios, creates opportunities for students to work directly with the Shoals community, and helps them find jobs and internship opportunities. She teaches her students to think seriously about how a community commemorates their history and pushes them outside of their comfort zones so that they become thoughtful public history practitioners. The works she does goes well beyond the subject matter she teaches in the classroom.

Dr. Barske was born in Anchorage, Alaska and grew up in an 18th century house in Connecticut. She is an avid horsewoman, and won a national title from the Intercollegiate Horse Show Association while she was a student at Sewanee. Dr. Barske has taught at UNA since the fall of 2012.

"It is important that students bring a certain ragamuffin, barefoot irreverence to their studies, they are not here to worship what is known, but to question it." — Jacob Bronowski

Coauthored with Mary McDaniel "The Variability of $H\alpha$, $H\beta$ and $H\gamma$ Equivalent Widths in Delta Scorpius between 2001 and 2014," poster paper, Undergraduate Conference for Women in Physics, Mississippi State University, January 16 – 17, 2015.

Coauthored with Koko Himeno, "Modeling 1090 Sumida," poster paper, Society of Physics Students Zone 6 Meeting, Auburn University, March 20 – 21, 2015.

Coauthored with Mary McDaniel, "The Variability of $H\alpha$, $H\beta$ and $H\gamma$ Equivalent Widths in Delta Scorpius between 2001 and 2014," Oral Paper, Alabama Academy of Sciences, Western Alabama University, March 11 - 14, 2014

Authored "Outreach Activities at UNA Planetarium," Oral Paper, Alabama Academy of Sciences, Western Alabama University, March 11 - 13, 2014.

Blankinship, Lisa Ann - Associate Professor of Biology

Co-presented, "Development of a Multiplex PCR for the Detection of KPC-Positive Bacteria Isolated from Clinical Sputum Samples," Association of Southeastern Biologists and Southeastern Region of Tri-Beta Honor Society, Chattanooga, TN, April 2015.

Blount, Linda - Professor of Education

Co-authored, "Keeping it REAL with Performance-based Assessment for Instructional Leaders," ASCD E-Newsletter, Alabama Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development, vol. 3(2):7-8, November 2014.

Bowie, Miranda - Assistant Professor of Mathematics

Co-presented, "Geogebra: More than just a Geometry Tool," Invited Talk, Fourth Annual Kennesaw Mountain Undergraduate Mathematics Conference, Kennesaw, GA, October, 2014.

Co-presented, "Incorporating Free and Inexpensive Technologies in the Mathematics Classroom," Alabama Council of Teacher of Mathematics Fall Forum, Birmingham, AL, October, 2014.

Brewer, Will - Assistant Professor of Nursing

Presented "Tissue Plasminogen Activator Non-Treatment in First-Time Ischemic Stroke," STTI International Leadership Connection, Indianapolis, Indiana, September 2014

Presented "Tissue Plasminogen Activator Barriers to Administration," NAHEC Annual Conference, Huntsville, AL, August, 2014

Presented "Tissue Plasminogen Activator Non-Treatment in First-Time Ischemic Stroke. UAB PhD Intensive," Birmingham, AL, June, 2014

Coauthored with S. Collins and C. Cagle, "The Accounting and Auditing Implications of Maintaining Intellectual Property," Journal of Accountancy, 2015.

Lindsey, Natasha - Assistant Professor, Instructional Designer

Became certified Quality Matters Facilitators for the Improving your Online Course Workshop, April 2015.

Served as a Quality Matter Peer Reviewer for Winona State University, Winona Michigan, March 2015.

Loepky, Ian - Professor of Music

Presented, "Using Your iPad as a Music Folder," Podium (Choral Canada's biennial conference), Halifax, NS, May 2014.

Authored, Book review: "Music Across the Senses: Singing, Learning, and Making Meaning by Jody Kershner," Choral Journal, October 2014 (Vol. 55 No. 5).

Authored, Book review: "The Answering Voice: The Beginnings of Counterpoint by Alice Parker," Choral Journal, November 2014 (Vol. 55 No. 6).

Published, Masters in This Hall (mixed voices, a cappella), UNC Jazz Press, 2014.

Published, "Using the iPad and ForScore in the Choral Classroom," Anacrusis, Winter 2015 (Vol. 33 No. 2).

Presented, "Ask Not for Whom the Bell Tolls: Getting the Most Out of Your Choir's Rehearsal Time," AMEA In-service Conference, Montgomery, AL, January 2015.

Editor, Alabama Reprise (Alabama Choral Directors Association, publications in November 2014 and April 2015).

Member of Editorial Board, Anacrusis (Choral Canada, appointed February 2015).

Loew, Sandra - Chair and Professor of Counselor Education

Co-presented, "The Innovative Classroom: Ten Creative Activities in Counselor Education," Southern Association of Counselor Education and Supervision Conference in Birmingham, AL, October 2014.

Maddox, Lamont - Assistant Professor of Education

Co-presented, "Investigating Confederate Conscription During the Civil War: An Historical Dilemma," Social Studies Council of Alabama (SSCA) Conference, Birmingham, AL, October 2014.

Marvin, Glenn - Associate Professor of Biology

Co-presented, "Lower Temperature Limit for Feeding Behavior in the Semi-aquatic Plethodontid Salamander Desmognathus conanti," Association of Southeastern Biologists and Southeastern Region of Tri-Beta Honor Society, Chattanooga, TN, April 2015.

Co-presented, "Identification of Polymorphic Loci for a Rare Plethodontid Salamander (Plethodon petraeus) by Cross-species Amplification," Association of Southeastern Biologists and Southeastern Region of Tri-Beta Honor Society, Chattanooga, TN, April 2015.

Maynard, Christopher - Associate Dean for the College of Arts and Sciences and Professor of History

Authored, "The Troika: James Baker III, Edwin Meese III, and Michael Deaver," in A Companion to Ronald Reagan, edited by Andrew L. Johns (Oxford: Wiley-Blackwell, 2015).

McGee II, John A. - Instructor, Coordinator of Academic Technology; Interim Coordinator of Educational Technology Services

Became certified Quality Matters Facilitators for the Improving your Online Course Workshop, April 2015.

Mighty, Mario A. - Assistant Professor of Geography

Authored, "Site Suitability and the Analytic Hierarchy Process: How GIS Analysis Can Improve the Competitive Advantage of the Jamaican Coffee Industry," Applied Geography. DOI: 10.1016/j.apgeog.2015.01.010

Presented, "Survival Mode: Jamaican Farmer Responses to Decreased Competitive Advantage in the Specialty Coffee Industry," Association of American Geographers (AAG) Annual Meeting, Chicago, IL, April 2015.

Presented, "A Dying Star? The Rise and Fall of the Jamaica Coffee Industry's Competitive Advantage," Southeastern Division of the Association of American Geographers (SEDAAG) Annual Conference, Athens, GA, November 2014.

Morris, Scott - Student Media Advisor and Adjunct in Communications

Presented, "Press Releases 101, How to Make Your News Newsworthy," Public Relations Council of North Alabama and Women's Business Center of North Alabama, Huntsville, AL, March 2015.

Nelson, Michelle - Assistant Professor of Nursing

Presented, "Continuous Positive Airway Pressure Use and Mild Obstructive Sleep Apnea Syndrome (OSAS)," North Alabama Health Education Council (NAHEC), Huntsville, AL, August, 2014, Awarded first place for poster presentation.

Oden, Kristy - Assistant Professor of Nursing

Published, "Transitioning Nurse Practitioners into Assistant Professors," International Journal for Innovation Education and Research, Vol. 3-1, 2015.

O'Neal, Eric - Assistant Professor of Health, Physical Education, and Recreation

Coauthored with Katie Melching, Matt Green, and Lee Renfro, "Body Dissatisfaction: Influence of Physical Activity & Gender on Beliefs Regarding Peers' Perceptions," International Journal of Exercise Science.

Thesis chair and coauthored with Veronika Pribyslavska, Eric Scudamore, Samantha Johnson, Matt Green, Caitlin Stevenson, and Jordan Lowe, "Influence of Carbohydrate Mouth-rinsing on Running and Jumping Performance during Early Morning Soccer Scrimmaging," European Journal of Sport Science.

Coauthored, with Thomas Andre, Matt Green, Tom Coates, and Joshua Gann. "Acute Caffeine Supplementation's Effect on Repeated Upper and Lower Body Wingate Performance," International Journal of Exercise Science.

Thesis chair and coauthored with Adam Korak and Matt Green, "Resistance Training Recovery: Considerations for Single vs. Multi-joint Movements and Upper vs. Lower Body Muscles," International Journal of Exercise Science.

Thesis chair and coauthored with Kelly Thigpen, Matt Green, and Lee Renfro, "Hydration Profile and Sweat Loss Perception of Division II Basketball Players During Practice," Journal of Strength and Conditioning Research.

Coauthored with Jared Hornsby and Kyle Kelleran, "High Intensity Tasks with External Load in Military Applications: A Review," Military Medicine.

Co-presented with Caitlin Stevenson, Samantha Johnson, Veronika Pribyslavska, Ashton Waddell, Amber Lamm, Alexander Heatherly, and Matt Green, "24-Hour Responses of USG and Fluid Retention in Male Runners During Low, Moderate, and High Fluid Replacement," Southeastern American College of Sports Medicine Regional Conference, Jacksonville, FL, February 2015. *Faculty Mentor: Caitlin Stevenson Nominated for SEACSM Graduate Research Award.

Bayens, M. Cooper, and M. Hunter, the 3rd International Conference on Dynamics of Systems on Nanoscale, Edinburgh, UK, May 19-23, 2014.

Presented, "Featured Trends in Electron Elastic Scattering off Endohedral Fullerenes," coauthored with UNA students C. Bayens, M. Cooper, and M. Hunter, the 3rd International Conference on Dynamics of Systems on Nanoscale, Edinburgh, UK, May 19-23, 2014.

Presented, "Electron Elastic Scattering off High Spin Atoms: the Cr and Mn Case," coauthored with researchers from Russia and Israel, the 45th Annual Meeting of the Division of Atomic, Molecular, and Optical Physics, the American Physical Society, Madison, WI, June 2-6 2014.

Co-presented, "Electron Elastic Scattering off A@C60 Fullerenes: the Zeroth Order Trends," coauthored with UNA students C. Bayens, M. Cooper, and M. Hunter, the 45th Annual Meeting of the Division of Atomic, Molecular, and Optical Physics, the American Physical Society, Madison, WI, June 2-6 2014.

Co-presented, "Attosecond Time Delay and Confinement Resonances in Photoionization of Endohedral Atoms: Xe@C60," coauthored with researchers from Australia, India, and the USA, the 45th Annual Meeting of the Division of Atomic, Molecular, and Optical Physics, the American Physical Society, Madison, WI, June 2-6 2014.

Co-presented, "Effect of Coulomb Confinement Resonances on Time Delay in Ne@C60-5," coauthored with researchers from Australia, India, and the USA, the 11th Asian International Seminar on Atomic and Molecular Physics, Sendai, Japan, October 6-10, 2014.

Co-presented, "Wigner Time Delay in Quadrupole Photoionization Channels of Atomic Hg," coauthored with researchers from Australia, India, and the USA, the 11th Asian International Seminar on Atomic and Molecular Physics, Sendai, Japan, October 6-10, 2014.

Co-presented, "Relativistic, Correlation and Confinement Effects on Photoionization Time-Delay Near Dipole and Quadrupole Cooper Minima in Free and Confined Atomic Mercury," coauthored with researchers from Australia, India, and the USA, the 11th Asian International Seminar on Atomic and Molecular Physics, Sendai, Japan, October 6-10, 2014.

Co-presented, "Photoionization Time-Delay Studies Across Shape Resonance of (n-1)d Subshells of Atomic Cadmium and Zinc," coauthored with researchers from Australia, India, and the USA, the 11th Asian International Seminar on Atomic and Molecular Physics, Sendai, Japan, October 6-10, 2014.

Co-presented, "Wigner Time Delay Studies of Photoionization of Atomic Zinc and Cadmium," coauthored with researchers from Australia, India, and the USA, the 11th Asian International Seminar on Atomic and Molecular Physics, Sendai, Japan, October 6-10, 2014.

Duques, Matthew – Assistant Professor of English

Authored, "Disease and Disaster in Lydia Maria Child's Philothea in Trans-atlanticism: Literary Markets and Political Identities," 1780-1850, August, 2015.

Authored, "The True and Interesting Story of John Dennis's Dramatis Personae," Notes and Queries, May, 2015.

Presented, "Lydia Maria Child and the Sentimental Novel," Pacific Ancient and Modern Language Association (PAMLA) Riverside, CA, November, 2014.

Elmasry, Mohamad – Assistant Professor of Communications

Coauthored with P.J. Auter and S. Peuchaud, "Facebook Across Cultures: A Cross-Cultural Content Analysis of Egyptian, Qatari, and American Student Facebook Pages," Journal of Middle East Media, Vol 10, issue 1, pp. 27-60, 2014.

Coauthored with D. Basiony and S. Elkamel, "Egyptian Journalistic Professionalism in the Context of Revolution: Comparing Survey Results from Before and After the January 25, 2011 Egyptian Uprising," International Journal of Communication, Vol 8, pp. 1-20, 2014.

Coauthored with M. El-Nawawy, "One Country, Two Eras: How Three Egyptian Newspapers Framed Two Presidents," Global Media Journal: Mediterranean Edition, Vol 9, issue 1, pp. 27-39, 2014.

Authored, "Islam in the West: A Discourse Analysis of American and British Muslim Web Content," Journal of Arab and Muslim Media Research, Vol. 6, numbers 2-3, pgs 233-249, 2014.

Coauthored with M. El-Nawawy, "A Comparative Content Analysis of Al-Jazeera and Al-Arabiya Coverage of the Egyptian Revolution," Journal of Applied Journalism & Media Studies, Vol. 4, issue 2, pp. 239-258, 2015.

Authored, review of "Egyptian Revolution 2.0: Political Blogging, Civic Engagement, and Citizen Journalism," by Mohammed El-Nawawy and Sahar Khamis, Journal of Middle East Media, Vol 10, issue 1, pp. 87-93, 2014.

Presented, Huff Post Live, Online Interview Regarding "Egyptian Judiciary's Sentencing of Former President Mohamed Morsi," April 21, 2015.

Presented, NTV Turkey, Television Interview Regarding "Western Media Coverage of the Chapel Hill, North Carolina Shootings," February 19, 2015.

Presented, Al-Jazeera International, Television Interview Regarding "Ongoing Anti-Military Coup Protests in Egypt," February 13, 2015.

Presented, WBAI Radio New York, Interview Regarding "Media Portrayals of Muslims in the Aftermath of the Chapel Hill, North Carolina Shootings," February 13, 2015.

Presented, WMNF Tampa Radio, Interview Regarding "Media Portrayals of Muslims in the Aftermath of the Chapel Hill, North Carolina Shootings," February 13, 2015.
