Department Chair Meeting Minutes
College of Arts and Sciences
January 14, 2014

The meeting was called to order at 8:05 a.m. on Tuesday, January 14, 2014. Dr. Vagn K. Hansen, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, presided. Department Chairs present: Ms. Chiong-Yiao Chen, Dr. Paul Kittle, Dr. Brent Olive, Dr. Gregory Pitts, Dr. Yaschica Williams, Dr. Larry Adams, Dr. Bob Garfrerick, Dr. Claudia Vance, Dr. Francis Koti, Dr. Christopher Maynard, Dr. Lee Raney for Dr. Cindy Stenger, LTC Michael Snyder, Dr. David McCullough, Dr. Richard Hidburg, Dr. Joy Borah, and Dr. Jerri Bullard. Debbie Tubbs took the minutes.

1. Approval of Minutes from November 19, 2013. The minutes were approved by consensus.

2. Curriculum Change Proposals from the Department of Communications. Dr. Pitts made a motion to discuss the following as a package and Dr. Hansen asked him to propose and discuss line by line:

   Change/deletion in course prerequisites for COM 230 Foundations of Public Relations (remove COM 215 as a prerequisite); COM 256 Fundamentals of Electronic Media (remove COM 205 as a prerequisite and revision of course description); COM 317 Media Convergence (remove COM 205 and COM 215 and add COM 243 as prerequisites); and course fee increase (from $30 to $50) for COM 317. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

   Change in course title and increase of course fee for COM 241 (now titled) Radio Production and Performance. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

   Change in course title, description, prerequisites (add COM 243), course fee (from $30 to $50), and numbering of COM 242 to COM 342 (now titled) Television Production and Performance. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

   Change in course description for TH 100 Elements of Theatre to limit repeat to one time with a maximum of six semester hours total for the course. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

3. Curriculum Change Proposals from the Department of Psychology. Dr. Hudiburg made a motion to create a new course, PY 495 Psychology Capstone Project (3), to serve students at the senior level by designating a specific course title in order to conduct an appropriate capstone project and serve as the capstone for the proposed HCI/UX Evaluation minor. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

   Dr. Hudiburg made a motion to create a new minor in HCI/UX Evaluation, open to psychology majors only, to offer these students an opportunity to expand their knowledge in computer information systems/computer science, design, and new media writing. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

4. Curriculum Change Proposals from the Department of Foreign Languages. Dr. Vance made a motion to create the following new three-credit-hour courses: SP 505 Survey of Spanish Literature I (cross-listed with SP 405); SP 506 Survey of Spanish Literature II (cross-listed with SP 406); SP 510 Survey of Latin American Literature I (cross-listed with SP 410); and SP 511 Survey of Latin American Literature II (cross-listed with SP 411). These courses are to support the Master’s degree in Spanish Education offered by the College of Education and Human Sciences. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

Dr. Vance made a motion to create the following new three-credit-hour courses in support of the Master’s degree in Spanish Education: SP 601 Spanish Golden Age Prose: The Picaresque; SP 602 The Spanish Realist Novel; SP 611 Las mujeres del modernismo y del posmodernismo; and SP 612 La novela del Boom. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

Dr. Vance made a motion to create a new course, SP 621 Linguistica aplicada y aprendizaje del espanol como segunda lengua, in support of the Master’s degree in Spanish Education. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

Dr. Vance made a motion to create a new course, FL 590 Special Topics in International Studies: Abroad, and cross-list the new course with FL 490. This new course was created in support of the current interdisciplinary Master’s degree programs. The motion was seconded, opened for discussion, and adopted.

5. Change in Catalog Year Requests. Dr. Hansen reported that Lisa Burton attended the COAD meeting yesterday to ask colleges to be proactive in meeting with their students to discuss the transition from 128 to 120-127 hour degrees in some majors which goes into effect with the 2014-2015 catalog. Dr. Hansen stated that due to the size of our college, he would like to ask each department that has had a change in degree completion hours to decide how to get the information out to their students. If students wish to change from their current catalog year to the 2014-2015 edition and have already applied for graduation, they must amend their graduation application. Students who have not yet applied for graduation must fill out the change of major form stating the current catalog they are under and the desired catalog year they are requesting. Dr. Hansen acknowledged that changing catalogs might cause numerous substitutions in curriculum and knows departments will have to approach these situations on a case-by-case basis.

6. Report from COAD. Dr. Hansen reported that the following topics were discussed:
   - Telephone hold music can now be changed and each department can decide on its own music for the department as a whole and submit a MP3 to IT for implementation.
   - WIFI is in the process of being updated with new hardware and software which should make it much faster and accessible in more areas on campus. The new system should also handle registration surges more efficiently.
   - Self-service Banner is moving to the Cloud.
-Lisa Burton discussed the desire to try to move the exam schedule closer to class schedules and the difficulty with 221 meeting patterns but a good faith effort will be made.
- A couple of items will be sent to the Faculty Senate, including revisions in the faculty course evaluations.
- The study abroad process of enrolling study abroad students for insurance is being moved from International Affairs to each professor leading a study abroad course.

9. Other.
- Dr. Hudiburg shared that he asked Renee’ for the rule of thumb for scheduling semesters and she stated for fall, the start of the semester is the Monday after the third Saturday in August. For spring, the start of the semester is the Monday after the first Sunday unless the first Sunday is January 1. He stated that with this formula there will be no more four-week breaks in August.
- LTC Snyder thanked the departments for their support of ROTC. He asked for their help in making sure that students know they will be around for four more years, and explained that a matrix has been put in place by the Army for transparency in sharing where the program is in making their numbers. He shared that a new leader, Major Cochran Pruett, has been identified and will be taking over during the summer.

The meeting adjourned at 9:25 a.m.

Will the change require additions or deletions to the Major’s Course List?  Yes ☐ No ☒
List courses that will be added or deleted for EACH major affected by the curriculum change (see current Major’s Courses List). Include major, course number, and title (e.g., “Add to Biology and Marine Biology – BI 498 Study of Pelagic Birds.”

Brief Description and Rationale – (1) include catalog course prefix, proposed number, credit hours, title, description, prerequisite, if any; (2) include relevant information concerning UNA’s mission and goals, student learning opportunities, impact on existing programs and financial implications (you must attach a copy of the current catalog page(s) with all suggested changes made using the Guidelines and Style Manual):

   COM 230. (3) Foundations of Public Relations.
   1. Remove prerequisites.
      Rational: COM 230 is not a writing-based course, so completion of a media writing course (COM 215) is not necessary for successful performance in this class. Most professional fields have a public relations component, so removing the COM 205 prerequisite would make it easier for more non-communications majors to take COM 230 as an elective course to learn the essential concepts and practices of community and media relationships in all professional concerns.

To support the University’s development of interdisciplinary minors relevant to the field of Human Computer Interaction/User Experience (HCI/UX), the Psychology Department proposes a minor in HCI/UX Evaluation. HCI/UX is an industry driven, rapidly growing discipline that demands interdisciplinary and collaborative abilities. The minor in HCI/UX Evaluation facilitates and enhances psychology students’ future success by offering them an opportunity to expand their knowledge in Computer Information Systems/Computer Science, Design, and New Media Writing.

The minor in HCI/UX Evaluation offers UNA students a competitive advantage in the marketplace. The minor curriculum includes courses offered in the Departments of Art, Psychology, English and Computer Information Systems/Computer Science. In addition, a new course for this minor, PY 495 Psychology Capstone Project, PY 495 - Psychology Capstone Project is being used temporarily until such a time when the UNA HCI/UX program establishes a common capstone course for all HCI/UX minors on UNA campus.

COURSE CATALOG DESCRIPTION: The objective of the course is to allow the student to design and complete a research project. The project can have either an empirical focus, an applied focus, or a theoretical focus. This course is offered primarily to seniors under the direction of a psychology professor. The activities of the student, the timeline for completion of the project, and evaluation of project will be determined by consultation with the professor of record for the course. A written completed project will be submitted. Open to Psychology Majors. Departmental approval required.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES: After completing the course, students should be able to:
- Formulate and develop psychological research questions
- Identify and apply appropriate psychological research methods to answer these questions
- Demonstrate broad knowledge of the specific research field through a literature review of relevant related studies
- Collect and analyze appropriate data for the research
- Demonstrate the use of psychological knowledge in doing research
- Link the results of the research with broader themes and theories in psychology
- Communicate effectively the results of the research in a written formal paper in current APA format

REQUIRED READINGS: Readings specific to the topic being researched will be identified by the professor in consultation with the student.

ASSESSMENT: Assessment methods will be identified by the professor for each student. A research paper (with introduction, literature review, methods, data, analyses, discussion, conclusion, and references) written in current APA format. Drafts of all or part of these materials may also be required, as well as meetings and consultations with the professor. Students are encouraged to pursue their research further and present its results at an academic conference.

Deadlines for all assignments will be set by the professor.
PY 444. (3) Psychology of Religion. A survey of the history and development of the psychology of religion with an emphasis on the empirical research within the field. Prerequisite: PY 201. (Offered on sufficient demand)

PY 450. (3) Psychology of Close Relationships. This course is designed as an overview to the field of close relationships. It will include psychological research techniques used in the study of close relationships, the current theories of close relationships, including examinations of attachment, interdependence, cognitive, and evolutionary approaches. It will also address experimental and other research on topics such as interpersonal attraction, how relationships are developed and maintained, infidelity, violence and jealousy in relationships, and how relations impact on health. (Offered on sufficient demand)

PY 451. (3) Introduction to Psychological Tests. A course designed to introduce the essential characteristics of psychological tests, including types, development, and standardization, validation, uses, and interpretation. Recommended: MA 147. (Offered on sufficient demand)

PY 455. (3) Introduction to Applied Behavior Analysis. This course focuses on how environmental events influence behavior, and behavior analytic strategies by which behavior may be changed. General topics to be covered include principles of learning, single-subject design methods, skills training and stimulus control techniques, and how to plan, develop, and implement behavior change programs across a variety of populations, settings, and behaviors. (Offered on sufficient demand)

PY 460. (3) Introduction to Clinical Psychology. A survey of the models, methods, and professional areas of clinical psychology including an overview of the field, ethical and legal considerations, assessment, intervention, and specialties. Prerequisite: PY 201. Recommended: PY 302, PY 451. (Offered on sufficient demand)

PY 465W. (3) Experimental Psychology. Experimental methods and descriptive methods, techniques, and apparatus involved in the study of behavior; physiological processes, and mental processes; laboratory work designed to demonstrate basic scientific principles and processes in psychology. Prerequisites: MA 110 or MA 112 or higher numbered mathematics course above MA 112, PY 222, PY 375. (Fall, Spring)

PY 470. (3) Health Psychology. This course examines how biopsychosocial factors influence various aspects of health. Topics to be covered: theories of health behavior, stress, coping with health and stress, substance use and abuse, body weight issues, coping and management of pain as well as biopsychosocial aspects of pain and disease. Other topics to be covered are biopsychosocial factors in the promotion and maintenance of health, types of health care interactions, and compliance with health care recommendations. Some attention will be paid to topics in behavioral medicine. (Offered on sufficient demand)

PY 490. (3) Topics in Psychology. A detailed study of a particular topic of special interest. Topics will vary but will be listed in the schedule of classes and on the student's transcripts. May be repeated for credit with change of topic. (Offered on sufficient demand)

PY 495. (3) Psychology Capstone Project. The objective of the course is to allow the student to design and complete a research project. The project can have either an empirical focus, an applied focus, or a theoretical focus. This course is offered primarily to seniors under the direction of a psychology professor. The activities of the student, the timeline for completion of the project, and evaluation of project will be determined by consultation with the professor of record for the course. A written completed project will be submitted. Open to Psychology Majors. Departmental approval required. (Fall, Spring)

PY 499. (1-3) Independent Study or Research. Open to junior or senior level psychology majors on approval of the department chair.

1. Course catalog description and objectives.

This course studies Spanish literature from its origins in the 9th Century with the jarchas through the Siglo de Oro and into Romanticism. It will acquaint students with the major literary, intellectual and historical trends through the study of representative works from each period. In addition, this course focuses on literary analysis and critical study of Spanish literature through focused research of primary and secondary sources. This course is conducted entirely in Spanish.

2. Justification for course or proposed change(s)

This course is being created to support the Master of Arts in Spanish Education program.

3. Outline of Course Topics

4. Activities Required of Students

5. Evaluation Procedures

6. References and Text

7. Course resources and costs

8. Justification for Addition of/Increase in Course Fee

9. Justification for Graduate Credit When a Course is Dual Listed

Cross listing this course will conserve resources within the department and aid students in the completion of their degree as these courses are already established on a set rotation within the department.
SPANISH 505
SURVEY OF SPANISH LITERATURE I

Course Objectives.
The purpose of this course is to introduce the student to the significant literary works written in Spain prior to the mid-1800s. This course will explore the development of Spanish literature through reading, discussion and written analysis of poetry, drama and the novel. This course will be conducted entirely in Spanish and aims to improve student proficiency in written and spoken Spanish. Daily written and communication exercises are an integral part of this course; therefore the student must make his or her best effort to communicate in Spanish before resorting to English.

Course Organization.
There will be a daily reading assignment that students are expected to complete before coming to class. Readings will vary in length depending on the genre, language style and subject matter. In class, we will evaluate the literature through small group discussion, question and answer sessions, and individual student presentations, therefore it is imperative that students attempt to engage the literature and complete the reading assignment before class.

Reading Assignments.
All reading assignments will be found in the text. Those not in the required text will be made available on the course ANGEL website. It is your responsibility to complete the assignments PRIOR to coming to class. If the instructor determines that you have not prepared adequately for the course, you will be dismissed from class until you have completed the assignment. Such dismissals will constitute no less than ½ an absence, which will adversely affect your final grade.

Grading.
Attendance and participation are extremely important to the success of this class and your final grade will reflect your level of dedication and commitment to the course throughout the semester.

Exams. (30% of final grade)
There will be a midterm and final exam based on the reading material and lecture information. Exams will be essay format in which you will be expected to discuss a specified literary work or author. Students must write all exams in a GREEN BOOK (available at the UNA Bookstore.)

Essays. (2 short essays @ 15% each, 1 research paper @ 30%)
This is a writing course and students are expected to practice their writing skills in Spanish. There will be two short essays (6-8 pages) due during the semester based on a literary analysis of the readings assigned in class and a final research project (15-20 pages), the subject of which will be determined by the student in conference with the instructor. All writing assignments are to be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman, 12 pt. font with standard one inch margins. Citation should follow MLA guidelines.

Presentation. (10% of final grade)
Students may give a formal presentation based on one of their short essays. This presentation will last approximately 20 minutes and will be given entirely in Spanish. As the basis of the presentation is an essay you have already written, your grade will be based on your ability to appropriately answer the questions and comments from your audience.

SP 506: Survey of Spanish Literature II

Grading: The primary means of assessing reading and writing abilities will be through homework assignments, exams, presentations and the final composition. Speaking and listening abilities will be assessed on an ongoing basis, with frequent feedback in class and in office hours, as well as through presentations. In addition, you will take the Webcape Placement Exam twice: once during the first week of class, and once again during the final week of class. This will provide me, and you, a measure of your achievement and appropriate placement level for continuing study in the language.

You will be evaluated on correct grammar and language usage as well as content in all essays. In-class discussions are evaluated only as a preparation grade, but must show that you are engaging the literature in its original language. You will not be penalized for grammar errors in discussions. Above all, it is the process of learning that matters most.

Quizzes and Exams: There will be a midterm and final exam based on the reading material and lecture information. In addition to the exams, there will be several brief reading comprehension quizzes that will be used to check preparation, comprehension, and serve as guides for class discussion.

Research Paper: A research paper is required. It will be graded based on the Evaluation Criteria for Presentations and Compositions in this syllabus. It will not be accepted late. This is a writing course and students are expected to practice their writing skills in Spanish. This will be a final research project (15-20 pages), the subject of which will be determined by the student in conjunction with the instructor. All writing assignments are to be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman, 12 pt. font with standard one inch margins. Citation should follow MLA guidelines.

Group Presentation: A group presentation is required. It will be graded based on the Evaluation Criteria for Presentations and Compositions in this syllabus. The presentation must be between 25 and 30 minutes in length, and it may not be given late.

Individual Presentation/Paper: An individual presentation is required. It will be graded based on the Evaluation Criteria for Presentations and Compositions in this syllabus. The presentation must be between 15 and 20 minutes in length, and it may not be given late. A written paper must be turned in at the time of presentation. All writing assignments are to be typed, double-spaced in Times New Roman, 12 pt. font with standard one inch margins. Citation should follow MLA guidelines.

LITERATURA LATINOAMERICANA I

Objectives.
The purpose of this course is to introduce students to the wealth of literature produced in Latin America prior to Independence. Over the course of the semester, we will study samples of literature from pre-colonial civilizations, the literature of encounters and conquest, and colonial literature. The successful student will be able to identify significant works and themes that abound in literature from this period, as well as be able to discuss these works and their themes in Spanish.

Course Organization.
Following the outline at the end of this syllabus, students will prepare assigned readings for each class period. It is the responsibility of each student to prepare for each day’s discussion by reading the assigned material. There will be a brief, 5-minute reading comprehension quiz at the beginning of most (if not every) class period. Students may use any reading notes they kept, but not the material itself. In class, we will analyze the texts in group activities both large and small, formal and informal presentations, and group and individual questions and answers.

Exams.
We will have two exams this semester, a midterm and a final. Exams will be a combination of literary identifications, textual identifications, and brief literary analyses.

Essays and Reading Responses.
Students will submit three 10-12 page essays written IN SPANISH over the course of the semester. The professor will present students with a new list of approved works and topics for papers every three weeks. Students may choose any three papers to submit over the course of the semester, but may only select one topic from each list.

Students will submit a brief summary (1 page) of each reading assignment and a review of each critical article for every reading assignment. The purpose of this assignment is to ensure students are 1) understanding the primary texts and 2) developing the critical skills necessary to conduct original critical research and analysis in literature.

Grading.
I will grade every element of the course, including all spoken and written material. As this is a graduate level course, the entire course will be conducted in Spanish.

Barry, Peter. Beginning Theory: An Introduction to Literary and Cultural Theory
Selected critical studies

Description:
This seminar will focus on the development of picaresque narrative and on broader issues of narrative theory and criticism, including the question of “the modern novel.” The primary texts are the anonymous Lazarillo de Tormes, Mateo Alemán’s Guzmán de Alfarache, Francisco de Quevedo’s La vida del buscón, and Jerónimo de Salas Barbadillo’s La hija de Celestina. Readings will be accompanied by an examination of critical studies and of relevant theoretical matters.

Objectives:
The course objectives will include a consideration of
- The development of the picaresque and of the literary picaro/picara
- The picaresque and questions of genre and gender
- The relation of the picaresque to narrative realism, Don Quixote, and eighteenth- and nineteenth-century fiction
- The early modern Spanish picaresque as discourse
- Critical and theoretical approaches to the picaresque (and to narrative in general)

Requirements:
Students will write brief (two- to three- page) commentaries on the readings and (one-page) critical abstracts. Each student will develop a seminar paper of 15 to 20 pages on a topic chosen in consultation with the instructor. The paper may center on one of the texts studied in class or on another early modern picaresque narrative (e.g., Cervantes’s Rinconete y Cortadillo or Alonso de Castillo Solórzano’s El bachiller Trapaza). A draft of the seminar paper will be due at the end of week 12, so that students can receive comments and revise their work. The final version will be due by 3:00pm on Study Day.

A crucial element of the course will be the in-class discussion, which will involve the participation of all members of the seminar.

1. Course catalog description and objectives.

   This seminar explores the Spanish realist novel through the reading of texts by authors including Leopoldo Alas "Clarín," Benito Pérez Galdós, and Emilia Pardo Bazán, among others. It is a study of the poetics of the Spanish realist novel as well as the social, historical, and cultural background of the period. Some of the topics to be discussed will be: the problematic of representation, the obsession with the fabrication of people, the politics of gender and sex, the relation of the novel with other art forms and media, the historical conditions of existence of the realist novel, and the social function of literature, its actual or intended performative value.

The Spanish Realist Novel

Texts:
Alas “Clarín,” Leopoldo. La Regenta
Pardo Bazán, Emilia. Insolación
-----. Los Pazos de Ulloa
Pérez Galdós, Benito. Fortunata y Jacinta
Rimon-Kenan, Shlomith. Narrative Fiction: Contemporary Poetics

Description:
This seminar will explore the Spanish realist novel through the reading of four primary texts: La Regenta by Leopoldo Alas “Clarín,” Fortunata y Jacinta by Benito Pérez Galdós, Los Pazos de Ulloa and Insolación by Emilia Pardo Bazán. We will also read a selection of documents on the poetics of the Spanish realist novel and a set of critical articles on the novels and on the period as a whole. Additionally, we will review throughout the semester a well-known treatise on narratology: Shlomith Rimon-Kenan’s Narrative Fiction. Some of the topics to be discussed will be: the problematic of representation, the obsession with the fabrication of people, the politics of gender and sex, the relation of the novel with other art forms and media, the historical conditions of existence of the realist novel, and the social function of literature, its actual or intended performative value.

Objectives:
The focus of this class is to provide students with 1) an understanding of the basic principles of the Spanish realist novel, 2) a knowledge of the social, cultural, and historical context in which the realist novel was created, 3) a critical framework for conducting focused literary analysis, and 4) a foundation on which to refine analytical, interpretative, and critical skills through close literary analysis of narrative. The final goal is for students to produce a critical analysis of a literary work of publishable quality.

Requirements:
Each student will make around five oral presentations in Spanish on the primary texts, one every two or three weeks, and will write three critical summaries in Spanish on some of the articles read (one to two pages each) that will be distributed to the rest of the class. Students will write a 20-page final research paper in Spanish, following the MLA style. The subject of the final research paper will be chosen by the student in consultation with the professor. To that effect, students will present a written abstract (one page) of the paper in Spanish by no later than the tenth week of the semester to share with the entire class. The paper may center on one or several of the novels studied in class or on other texts of the period/genre. The final paper will be due by 3:00pm on Study Day at the end of the semester.

1. Course catalog description and objectives.

The course is designed to explore the nature of modernismo, as represented by the poetry of Rubén Darío, and the view of women that it engendered, reinforced, and/or disseminated. It further seeks to examine the way three important female writers, Delmira Agustini, Alfonsina Storni, and Gabriela Mistral, appropriated and redefined modernista discourse, the vision of artistic creation, and the image of woman.

Las mujeres del modernismo y del posmodernismo

Textos:

Descripción:

El seminario propone brindar un conocimiento general del modernismo, examinando en particular la poesía de Rubén Darío. El enfoque principal será la imagen de la mujer que creó y diseminó del modernismo. Este servirá como punto de arranque para examinar la manera en que tres mujeres poetas, Delmira Agustini, Alfonsina Storni y Gabriela Mistral, apropiaron, adaptaron y redefinieron el discurso modernista, influencia que se refleja en su lenguaje poético, su concepción de la creación artística, y su representación de la figura femenina.

Se leerán textos sobre las tendencias culturales de fines del siglo XIX, algunas de las cuales tienen que ver con los rasgos e impacto de la modernidad y otras que se relacionan con el tema de la mujer. Se leerá también teoría feminista para adquirir una perspectiva sobre corrientes actuales en el estudio de la literatura escrita por mujeres.

Para el comienzo de la quinta semana del curso, cada estudiante escogerá, según sus intereses y/o su investigación previa, a una autora y/o un tema que quiere explorar. Para esta fecha, se escribirá una descripción del propósito del seminario y del enfoque teórico que anticipa emplear. Esta descripción servirá de base para una presentación en clase y, más adelante, para el estudio final del semestre. La fecha de la presentación oral se decidirá de acuerdo con los temas escogidos y las necesidades del seminario. Para la presentación oral, el/la estudiante preparará una bibliografía limitada y seleccionará un texto poético que todos leeremos. Este estudio preliminar se desarrollará después para el trabajo final que incorporará comentarios hechos en clase.

Metas:

El seminario tiene como meta la adquisición de 1) un entendimiento de los rasgos principales del modernismo y de la poesía rubendariana, 2) un conocimiento de cómo el modernismo se desarrolla y se convierte en tendencias poéticas posteriores, 3) un análisis crítico para el estudio de literatura femenina, y 4) una base para el refinamiento de capacidad analítica, interpretativa, y crítica a través de la atención detallada a poemas específicos. La meta final es la producción de trabajos de calidad publicable.

Requisitos:

Los miembros del seminario deben leer y analizar los textos asignados antes de cada reunión semanal y deben estar preparados para participar en las discusiones del seminario. Escribirán dos análisis poéticos de 3 a 5 páginas sobre poemas específicos indicados en el programa del curso. Producirán una reseña, a modo de las que se publican en revistas profesionales, de no más de 750 palabras. También ofrecerán una presentación oral que durará unos 30 minutos. Esta presentación incluirá comentarios textuales dentro de un marco más amplio que sea histórico, cultural, o crítico. Se utilizará esta presentación como base para el trabajo final, que es un estudio más extenso, de unas 20 páginas. Se entregará el trabajo final el día de lectura (study day) antes de las 3:00 de la tarde. Todos los requisitos se deben completar en las fechas indicadas y absolutamente no se permitirán notas de Incompleto.

SP 611. Las mujeres del modernismo y del posmodernismo. 3 semester hours.

The course is designed to explore the nature of modernismo, as represented by the poetry of Rubén Darío, and the view of women that it engendered, reinforced, and/or disseminated. It further seeks to examine the way three important female writers, Delmira Agustini, Alfonsina Storni, and Gabriela Mistral, appropriated and redefined modernista discourse, the vision of artistic creation, and the image of woman.

SP 612. La novela del Boom. 3 semester hours.

This course is a study on the literary phenomenon of the 1960s in Latin America known as "The Boom." The primary focus of this course is on several key authors from the period, including Gabriel García Márquez, Julio Cortázar, Carlos Fuentes, Guillermo Cabrera Infante, Mario Vargas Llosa, among others. This course will examine the social, historical, and cultural events surrounding the emergence of the Boom novels on the international scene, as well as critical response to the authors and their works and the literary impact of the Boom novels on Latin American narrative.

Special Topics in International Studies: Abroad

Text: Varies by destination.

Description:

This course will provide students with a detailed study of a particular international studies topic of special interest while traveling in/through a specific foreign country or countries. Topics will vary depending on the destination country. The purpose of the class is to assist graduate students in identifying important social, historical, cultural, economic, and other issues affecting a country, then researching the expression of and reaction to these issues in country as well as the international community. Students will be assigned relevant readings that identify and analyze cultural elements significant to the destination country, prepare and conduct a research project relevant to their field of academic study and interests.

Requirements:

Students in this course must be participating in a UNA faculty-led study abroad program. Students will keep a detailed travel journal in which they identify the significant social, historical, cultural, and other elements of the community and society in which they are traveling. Students will complete assigned readings on the destination country, its cultural identity, social and historical elements important to the country in question. Students will write critical responses of 1-2 pages for each assigned reading. In addition to the assigned readings, students will identify a problem, theme, cultural expression, or other area of interest in the destination country and develop a research plan, conduct the research, and write a formal research paper of 15-20 pages for submission to the instructor within one week of returning to the United States. This research paper will follow the appropriate style and citation guidelines of their field of study. Students will also give a 20-minute formal presentation to the class on the preliminary findings of their research. Feedback from this presentation will be incorporated into the final research project.

Grade Evaluation:

- Travel Journal: 15%
- Critical responses to readings: 15%
- Presentation: 20%
- Research plan and portfolio: 10%
- Final Research Paper: 40%
