Dear Alumni and Friends:

It is my honor and privilege to serve as the chair of the UNA Foundation Board of Directors. In this role, I serve with a remarkable group of men and women, my fellow Foundation Board directors, who are deeply committed to raising money to empower the University of North Alabama to reach its full potential while leading it to be the best choice a student could make to begin or continue their college career.

I want to offer my heartfelt thanks to each and every one of you for your remarkable generosity to UNA. Your gifts, while fulfilling the philanthropic passion of your heart, enable our students, faculty, and staff to achieve the greatness that is within them. It is because of you that our enrollment and students are thriving! It is because of you that our faculty are thriving! It is because of you that the University of North Alabama is thriving! The UNA Foundation Board of Directors recognizes you and all that you do...and we are so very grateful.

Again, thank you for your support, and please stay well. Roar Lions!

Blessings,

Harry Smith ’64
Chair, UNA Foundation Board of Directors
Dear Friends,

Like all institutions of higher education, the pandemic of 2020 has challenged us at the University of North Alabama in ways small and large. We’ve been forced to adapt in all facets of university life. From course delivery to athletics and from finances to student engagement, this has been one strange year.

Despite these challenges, our University – your University – is thriving and showing the spirit and grit that has become our hallmark throughout the last 190 years. Consider some of our recent accomplishments. Enrollment for Fall 2020 set a new record with a total of almost 8400 students, up 4 percent over Fall 2019. Also up this fall are our retention and graduation rates – and that speaks volumes about student satisfaction with the UNA experience.

Integral to that experience is our beautiful campus and state-of-the-art facilities. Here, too, there is good news to report. Harrison Hall, the beautiful new home of the Anderson College of Nursing and Health Professions, is now open for business. Renovations that have transformed Collier Library into a preferred gathering place for our students.

There’s also great excitement surrounding the restoration of Harrison Plaza, about which you’ll read more in the pages that follow. The timing of the return of our iconic fountain couldn’t be better as it will help symbolize the renewal of UNA as this pandemic begins to lift. You’ll also read about Women of Influence, an initiative that is near and dear to Dena’s heart. It’s exciting to see what this group has already accomplished and what they plan to do in the future.

None of this would have been possible without the support of generous donors like you. The scholarships you endow are essential to our enrollment success, just as your gifts were critical in the renovation of Collier Library and the construction of Harrison Hall. And as for that work underway in the plaza, it is again your support of the Legacy Initiative that is making that possible.

Dena and I are humbled by your generosity and inspired by the heart you show for this University. So we speak for ourselves as well as for the faculty, staff, and students in saying THANK YOU for all you do for UNA. We appreciate you!

Roar Lions!

Kenneth D. Kitts

Dear UNA Family and Friends:

A lot has happened in the 12 months since our last Annual Report. In December, a portion of the Harrison Fountain collapsed. In March, COVID-19 was declared a pandemic. May brought civil unrest over racial injustice issues. And in June, our beloved Una passed away.

James Lane Allen once said, “Adversity does not build character, it reveals it.” In the exemplary Spring 2020 edition of UNA Magazine, referring only to the pandemic, I wrote, “We will overcome this for the same reason that this great University has overcome adversities for 190 years…because of the quality and character of the people!” Not surprisingly, through personal, national, and global struggles, the collective UNA Family has shown ourselves to be giants of character. I would like to note just a few of your many, many accomplishments during this past year:

- We had five different Giving Days that resulted in 414 donors giving 600 gifts totaling $256,033.
- We were able to secure namings for the Honors College, the Culinary Arts Program, and one of the Art Galleries…each naming ensuring the perpetual vibrancy of the namesake!

- We were able to establish 26 new funds.
- We were able to establish 29 endowed funds.
- We developed Women of Influence, Funding the Military and Veterans Service Center, Funding the Presidential Mentors Academy, and The Legacy Initiative as fundraising programs.

On behalf of the University, our students, faculty, and staff: Thank you. Thank you for sharing your lives with us, for giving selflessly and for having the visionary leadership to empower UNA, our students and our faculty to become all they are capable of becoming. The example you set by the lives you live truly inspires us all!

I would also like to thank the UNA Foundation Board of Directors. Each one of you is so uniquely gifted, and we are blessed to have the opportunity to serve alongside you. Thank you for giving so selflessly of your time, talent, and treasure. You are greatly valued and appreciated.

Finally, to the UNA Advancement Family I have the honor and privilege of serving with: There are not words to express adequately my deep admiration, appreciation, and respect for each one of you. You have thrived through every challenge, and your efforts are making such a profound difference for the donors we are privileged to serve and the students and faculty we are honored to empower. Thank you for all you do, but most of all thank you for being the remarkable people you are.

Please be safe, and I hope to see you all very soon.

Roar Lions!

The Heart of UNA Beats On

A fountain’s collapse spurs the creation of a new legacy initiative

By Michelle Rupe Eubanks ‘96
For the Annual Report
Forgetting the pandemic and all of the ways it has changed life on the University of North Alabama campus, the collapse of Harrison Fountain at the end of 2019 perhaps set the tone for the change and disruption that lay ahead. UNA’s President Dr. Ken Kitts’ response to rebuild the iconic center of campus, however, was swift and decisive. It was clear that the landmark, often considered the heart of UNA, would be rebuilt, and along with the reconstructed fountain, the surrounding plaza would get a facelift as well.

It became the task of Vice President for University Advancement Kevin Haslam to fund the initiative that would bring Harrison Fountain and Plaza back to its former glory, and thus, The Legacy Initiative was born. Haslam spoke about how vital this process has been as well as how clearly UNA’s alumni and friends have responded to the call to help.
Q: Harrison Fountain was built on a foundation of giving. How does that foundation continue with this initiative?

A: The Initiative is built on the foundation of selflessness and giving for the greater good of the University, and it establishes a legacy permanently etched in Harrison Plaza. These are traits that the Harrison family continues to exemplify to this day. It was through Dr. Don and Laura Harrison’s vision and selfless leadership that the Plaza and Fountain were established, a vision which blessed many during the past 17 years. It is this spirit that has inspired many of us to participate in the restoration. The Legacy Initiative was developed by the Advancement team with the intent of giving everyone who wants to participate the opportunity to do so. Dr. and Mrs. Harrison initially made the fountain and plaza possible, and we want everyone who shares their spirit to have the opportunity to do the same.

Q: We’ve experienced so much success related to the larger items as part of the initiative. To what do you attribute that success?

A: I think a couple of things. First, this is a unique opportunity. All of the naming opportunities are unique to this need at this time, and they will be in the Plaza permanently. There are people who love this University deeply, and they want to be a part of restoring such a significant part of it. There are also a lot of people who have secured namings to honor a loved one. It is just special. Second, as noted above, we created this to give people the opportunity to participate if they wanted to do so. With this, there are larger item naming opportunities from $4,000 per year to $500 per year. There are truly no insignificant gifts. It is about creating opportunities for everyone.

Q: This really is an opportunity to leave one’s mark on campus. Why is that so important? Why does it resonate?

A: I think there are several different reasons this resonates so strongly with so many. For some, UNA signifies a choice they made which forever changed the trajectory of their lives. For others, this is the opportunity to acknowledge the love that they found while on campus. For still others, it is a beautiful way to honor a loved one or someone who encouraged them on their journey, who is no longer with us. Every reason, like every life story, is beautiful and every bit as varied. The Plaza is quickly becoming this beautiful collage of life stories, forever memorialized.

Q: How will the initiative evolve as we get past the rebuilding of the fountain? Where will we go from here?

A: Once we have fully funded the restoration of the Fountain and Plaza, we will move on to Phase II of the Initiative, which is the 1830 Fund. The 1830 Fund is the University’s Annual Fund, with the monies being used for the greatest needs and emerging priorities of UNA as determined by the President. The subtitle of the Legacy Initiative is “Restoring the Heart of UNA.” It has two meanings: in Phase I, the Initiative is about restoring the Fountain and Plaza, located at the heart of the UNA campus. In Phase II, the Initiative will be about the 1830 Fund, the lifeline to the continued growth and development of UNA.

Q: Finally, can you provide an update related to the giving days and overall advancement area for readers?

A: Advancement will again have five Giving Days this year:

- November 18: The Second Leo and Una Giving Day
- January 11: The Second Founders’ Giving Day
- March 9: UNA Giving Day
- May 18: The Second Athletics Giving Day
- July 20: The Second College Giving Day

As for an overall advancement report: We remain steadfast in our commitment to engage everyone, internal and external, and to connect them to UNA in whatever manner is most meaningful to them. We genuinely value and appreciate everyone. The Advancement Team truly believes it is an honor and privilege to serve and takes seriously the responsibility to reach out to and engage everyone.

Cascade of Philanthropy

Women of Influence a hallmark initiative for student need

By Michelle Rupe Eubanks ’96
For the Annual Report

It’s early in the morning, and University of North Alabama First Lady Dena Kitts and Office of Advancement Assistant Vice President Barbie Terry are already on campus awaiting the arrival of the first guests. The smell of coffee and biscuits permeates the first floor of Rogers Hall, where they will gather at a safe social distance, to hear more about Women of Influence, Dena’s hallmark initiative.

Early on, there are moments when those in attendance want to greet and hug each other, as they normally would, as they would when six feet of social distance isn’t a requirement – but today, there are waves hello and nods of greeting. Soon enough, the few seats around the large dining room table are filled, and Holly Underwood, University Case Manager, shares why it is she’s there.

“I work with students who find themselves in situations where they are unable to afford books, fulfill tuition payments or have utility bills in collections,” she said. “Often, Caring for the Pride Fund is the one thing that allows a student to remain enrolled at UNA. This fund allows us, as a university community, to support and promote student success.”
The Caring for the Pride Fund is the reason these women, these Women of Influence, actually, are at Rogers Hall, are convened to hear how their contributions go to meet very real, very present, and often, very nominal, needs of UNA’s student population in both large ways and small.

And among the large ways would be to ensure that the Caring for the Pride fund is robust so that none of these needs go unmet, but, before we can get there, Dena said, there’s also a process of discovery, a time to consider how each of the women in Women of Influence want to help, even as we’re in the midst of a pandemic and all of the uncertainties that go along with it.

“Despite the pandemic – or maybe because of it – what we found is that women want to help,” she said. “What Barbie and I have learned is that when given the opportunity to help, women rise to that challenge. And then they tell others so that it becomes a cascade of philanthropy with the student as the ultimate beneficiary because they know that there is money available to help them stay in school and then graduate.”

As Dena talks about Women of Influence – the women themselves, of course, but also the students who benefit – it’s clear that this initiative is deeply personal. Her tone of voice softens, and she gets a bit nostalgic.

“I have a heart for our first-generation students because my mom was one, and, being a regional university in a more rural part of the country, we see a lot more of them here at UNA,” Dena said. “What we’re doing to support our students with the Caring for the Pride Fund is the true spirit of what education can be and how it can and does change lives.”

The University is home to a number of first-generation students, and the experience of being away from home for the first time can present unexpected challenges, challenges that go beyond meeting grade requirements. There are a number of initiatives in place to help them succeed, but, sometimes, that success means getting a little additional financial help for things like overdue bills or other unforeseen expenses.

“We’ve heard about students who just couldn’t make ends meet, and there was a $500 gap between them being able to stay in school or having to drop out for the semester,” Barbie said. “You know, I’m a first-generation student, and I know how education changes generations of families and the difference it can make. I believe the Women of Influence speaks to that.”

Of course, the Caring for the Pride Fund is for all students, not just those who are the first in their families to attend a university. And Barbie said there are a number of ways those involved with Women of Influence can be a part of the campus community and see their contributions at work.

“The great thing about that fund is that it’s for immediate use, so students just have to fill out an application to take advantage of it,” she said. “But we hear the stories and we know the need, and the help comes from a place of care and concern. The students recognize that.”

Those who benefit from the fund receive it with no strings attached. It’s not a loan, but it might inspire them to pay it forward once they’ve graduated and gotten settled into a career.
“When given the opportunity to help, women rise to that challenge. And then they tell others so that it becomes a cascade of philanthropy with the student as the ultimate beneficiary.”

“Then it becomes true philanthropy,” Dena said. “Women of Influence becomes a way to change people’s lives and that these initiatives that are funded matter.”

Beyond the Caring for the Pride Fund, of which one-third of the monies generated from Women of Influence will go, there’s room to grow. Members will vote on how the remaining two-thirds of the funds will be distributed so that needs among campus departments are also met and, possibly, that could include experiential learning opportunities for students. The discovery process is ongoing; women are still learning how to become involved. There is time because there will always be a need among students.

While the gatherings have been small in these early phases of Women of Influence, there are plans for larger-scale events once the pandemic abates and campus life returns to normal. It’s critical that those who contribute see that, no matter the size of the gift, great things can happen, Dena said.

The voices of those who participate matter and will help determine next steps.

“When we gave women the opportunity, you can see the good things that happen,” she said. “When we’re on board with something like this, when we’re all working toward the same goal of helping our students with those immediate needs, it truly changes lives – ours as well as theirs.”

IS YOUR NAME MISSING?

The Honor Roll of Donors contains names of individuals who have made gifts to the University of North Alabama between October 1, 2019, and September 30, 2020. There could be several reasons that your name does not appear in what you believe to be the appropriate giving level—or not at all:

1. You made your gift either before October 1, 2019, or after September 30, 2020.
2. You gave more during this period than you realize: Your name may be in the next giving level.
3. You made a pledge instead of an outright gift. If you made a pledge between October 1, 2019, and September 30, 2020, but chose to begin fulfilling it after September 30, 2020, your name will not appear in this honor roll, which reflects only gifts received.
4. You are a corporate sponsor for Athletics and are recognized through advertisement opportunities.

If we omitted your name in error, we would like to hear from you. If you have questions or corrections, contact the Office of Donor Relations and Prospect Management at 256.765.4861.
