The IRS defines an eligible expense as...

“Medical care expenses include amounts paid for the diagnosis, care, mitigation, treatment or prevention of disease or illness and for treatments affecting any part or function of the body.”

Usually, any healthcare expenses that are deductible under the Internal Revenue Code and not covered by insurance or any other source that provides benefits are eligible for reimbursement through the Health FSA. The exception to this is expenses for cosmetic procedures, expenses incurred for general health and well-being and health insurance premiums. The participant, the participant's spouse, children and any other person who is a qualified dependent under sections 105 and 106 of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code can incur eligible expenses.
