Center for Student Research

Welcome to our Newsletter!

Welcome to the Center for Student Research Newsletter! It is our hope to provide students at UNA with the tools necessary to produce and present quality research. We offer various services and assist students at both the undergraduate and graduate level, and look forward to presenting students with opportunities to share their findings.

Summer Semester

The Center for Student Research will not have any events occurring over the course of the summer, but feel free to contact us through email if you are in need of assistance at studentresearch@una.edu, or follow us using one of the social media links above!

Announcements

- The summer is a great time to participate in conferences, visit our website resources to see a list of some of the professional conferences that may help expand your understanding of your field of study.
- Interested in conducting research, or wondering how you can fund an ongoing project? Visit our funding webpage here to see some resources that can help you find a way fund your research!

Getting ready for Scholars Week 2019

We hope you had a chance to join us for Scholars Week! Here at the Center for Student Research we spent months preparing for Scholars Week with workshops and information tables around the campus. If you didn't get a chance to hang out with us this year, keep an eye on our website here for information about future workshops and events when we prepare for Scholars Week 2020!

Objectives

- 1 Preparation
Learn what to do when preparing to create your poster presentation.
- 2 Organization
Learn how to organize your poster presentation in a layout that will get your information across clearly and professionally.
- 3 Review
Learn the final steps to take before printing and presenting your presentation.
- 4 Printing
Learn where and how to print your poster presentation.
- 5 Presentation
Learn what to do and expect when presenting your completed poster to an audience.

Poster Presentation Workshop

Students had the opportunity to attend a poster presentation workshop to help prepare them for Scholars Week. During the workshop, Student Research Center Director Dr. Andrea Hunt covered topics such as how to prepare for, organize, design, and present a poster presentation.

If you were not able to attend the workshop, visit our resource tab on our website and see our best practices for presentations. Here you will find a pre-formatted poster template to download. Keep an eye on our website to stay up-to-date on future workshops and other skill building events!

Scholars Week 2019

Scholars Week is our annual showcase of student scholarship. This week is dedicated to the representation of all forms of research and creative activity. Students had the opportunity to present their projects during oral and poster presentations. Several students also participated in the 3-minute thesis, which challenged them to present an engaging explanation of their research in only three minutes. Please join us in congratulating our winners from the various categories!

Summer Message

Whether you are in summer classes or relaxing at the beach, remember that you should still be prepared for the fall semester ahead! If you are planning to conduct research in the fall semester, consider what you need to have prepared ahead of time to have your research progress in a timely manner.

Even if you are not conducting research, it is important to keep an eye on the calendar to be sure that you are ready to move in, get your books, and attend the first day of classes. Take a look at the schedule to the right to see some important summer dates, and keep in mind the fact that there are additional dates on the extended UNA calendar. Enjoy your summer and

Research tip:

Try to stick to primary research when gathering information about your topic. Primary research comes directly from the source, rather than being written by someone reviewing the research of someone else.
