The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) set forth requirements regarding the privacy of student educational records. This law governs the access and release of these records.

Who can submit a request for student information?

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) generally preclude an institution from disclosing or sharing personally identifiable information from a student record. Exceptions apply, including, for example:

- If the institution has obtained the prior consent of the student, or
- In response to requests for directory information provided the student has not withheld release of his/her directory information.

FERPA rights cease upon death. However, it is the policy of the University of North Alabama that no records of deceased students be released to third parties after the date of death, unless specifically authorized by the executor of the deceased’s estate or by the next of kin.

What data may be requested?

A request for academic records may include:
